

Senior Three History Paper

High Order Thinking Scenarios

Local Government

Scenario:

The village of Sonde is preparing for a local council election. The LC1 chairperson is responsible for organizing community projects, resolving disputes, and representing villagers at higher council levels. Some residents are concerned about accountability and transparency in decision-making.

Probing Task:

Examine the roles of the LC1 chairperson in promoting development and resolving disputes. Suggest ways the chairperson can ensure transparency and accountability in the local council.

Structure of Government

Scenario:

The national government is planning to introduce a new policy to improve education. Different arms of government - the executive, legislature, and judiciary - are involved in policy formulation, approval, and implementation.

Probing Task:

Analyze how the separation of powers among the executive, legislature, and judiciary ensures effective governance. Discuss potential conflicts that could arise and propose solutions to maintain checks and balances.

Sources of History

Scenario:

Students are conducting a field study in a nearby community to collect information about traditional leadership. They gather oral stories from elders, inspect old documents, and observe cultural artifacts.

Probing Task:

Evaluate the reliability and usefulness of oral, written, and material sources in reconstructing historical events. Discuss strategies to cross-check information from multiple sources to produce an accurate historical account.

All scenarios are formatted for a printable PDF, each topic clearly separated.
